Division of Emergency Medical Services The Delaware Division of Emergency Medical Services (DEMS) is part of the Delaware Department of Health and Social Services. The Division's mission is to protect and serve Delaware's citizens by providing community access to life-saving medical care during critical times of need. The Division consists of two medical operations centers (MOCs) and over 940 emergency response vehicles. Each MOC is staffed by emergency medical technicians and emergency medical services (EMS) professionals. DEMS also relies on community response and ambulance services to provide emergency medical care to the citizens of Delaware. Division Services Emergency response DEMS's Emergency Response Division provides the agency's primary first aid and emergency medical services support. The Division provides emergency medical services to out-of-hospital emergencies, including first aid to the sick and injured. These services include emergency treatment by emergency medical services personnel. The Emergency Response Division is responsible for the operation of multi-service mobile emergency medical services, first aid, advanced life support, air ambulance, and extrication equipment to serve the Delaware Emergency Medical Service System. These services include: Advanced Life Support (ALS) Ambulance Air Ambulance Extrication First Aid (Advanced Life Support and Basic Life Support) Hemorrhage Control Prehospital care The Division's Prehospital Care Division is responsible for all ambulance services within the state. DEMS provides advanced emergency medical services to Delaware citizens 24-hours a day, seven days a week, in every county in Delaware. This includes the use of 24-hour EMS and ALS service, ground, water, and air ambulance transports, and specialized medical air operations. Primary care EMS The Division's primary care EMS Division is responsible for the provision of first response and basic care to the citizens of Delaware.

Treatment and transport of patients with acute and critical care conditions are the primary activities of the primary care EMS Division. In addition, out-of-hospital primary care services are provided with service vehicles equipped with advanced cardiac life support equipment. The Division's primary care EMS Division is responsible for the provision of first response and basic
