In this paper, the effect of the polymer, alkali metal ion or polyelectrolyte solution salts and of their concentration on the properties of the composite membranes formed in the process of integration was studied and the optimum composition for the formation of KZnPV was determined. Numerical estimates of the ionic conductivity of the perovskite precursor and perovskite in the presence of the polymeric structure are given. The possibilities of the use of these materials as a component of the composite membranes in the electron transport systems are discussed. 21. Perturbation (λ)) function describing the probability that an infection is acquired in contact with others; there is interaction between infected and susceptible populations. λ and γ0 are rates in units of time^-1^; ρ is the recovery rate; and β is the rate of transmission that describes the number of contacts a susceptible individual has with an infected individual during a given time. Diaspora model assuming that no immigration of S. falcii occurs. The growth is exponential with a half time of 3.6 days. Letat not possible to recover treated cells due to prolonged contact or other unknown factors The half-life of the antibiotic PTA (Temafloxacin) calculated from the exponential curve in Figure 5 using MODs program in Excel software is 55.1±6.1 hours (n = 3). For subsequent experiments, Huh7 cells were incubated for 22 hours with 2×MIC (2 mg/L) PTA or increasing concentrations of PTA. Subsequently, cells were either further treated for 22 hours with growth medium containing the same concentration of PTA or washed and cultured with growth medium without antibiotic for a further 22 hours, and the cellular viability was quantified by MTT assay (Figure 6). Incubation of cells with low concentrations of PTA lead to a progressive increase of the percentage of viable cells to 62% and 75% at 24 and 48 hours, respectively (Figure 6). In contrast, the percentage of viable cells was significantly reduced at 48 hours with 2×MIC PTA (29%) and 4×MIC PTA (21%) (Figure 6). No cell death was observed during the entire observation time.
